

COLLEGE ADMISSIONS IN TIMES OF UNCERTAINTY

April 17 at 1PM

Have questions on what the coronavirus means for colleges and student admissions? Join Nicole Jobson of International College Counselors, and Nicole Cole of The College Money Team for this free, interactive webinar. Topics addressed may include:

- * Changes in standardized testing
- * How to choose a college without visiting
- * Deadline changes in undergraduate admissions
- * Cancelled college admissions events
- * Financial aid scholarships

Parents and students will leave with a better understanding of the coronavirus-affected 2020 college admissions cycle and feel less stressed overall.

Register: <https://bit.ly/2Xr9RV6>

About the Presenters

Nicole Jobson is a Director of College Advising at International College Counselors. For over 10 years, Nicole has worked as a college and graduate school advisor, which has gifted her the uncommon insight needed to help a diverse range of students. Her focus on leading with one's strengths has led her students to acceptance in some of the most competitive colleges in the country.

Nicole T. Cole, MBA has worked with families nationally to create mostly late stage college funding plans since 2009 as the founder and owner of TheCollegeMoneyTeam.com. She recently published, College Funding Strategies I Wish Someone Had Told Me. She offers her perspective as a certified College Funding Planning Specialist and member of College Funding Educators of America, a financial advisor, and a former financial aid trained peer counselor at the University of Maryland, College Park.

When:

Thursday, April 17
1:00-2:00pm EST

What:

FREE webinar and Q&A session for parents of students
in 8th - 11th grades

Register:

<https://bit.ly/2Xr9RV6>

Co-presented by:

(954) 414-9986

www.InternationalCollegeCounselors.com

(540) 318-0007

www.TheCollegeMoneyTeam.com